

Continuing our legacy

FROM THE DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Together We Can: Continue our Legacy

Leaving a legacy means giving something that will be valued and treasured by those who survive you after your death. It requires thought to ensure any items or values that have meaning to you will also be meaningful to those you designate to inherit them.

A life of service, genuine concern for others, and the desire to help those in need defines the legacy left to me by my parents. Both were active in Lionism, our home and way of life held the values of kindness, humility and the importance of helping those in need.

One of my greatest fears is that the organization that made a difference in my hometown and was so important to my parents may cease to exist in the next twenty years.

Lions' membership within the district has seen a continuous decline. Many Lions are leaving the pride while others are unable to continue in active service due to age or declining health.

Have you thought of the legacy you would like to leave your loved ones? Do you want to pass on the values of a servant heart to your children? Have you asked them to become Lions?

We need to explore what needs to change within our current clubs to entice the next generation to embrace the values and experiences of being a Lion.

I would like to challenge every Lion within the District to ask at least one person to become a Lion this year. Many younger people do not know what Lions do, and once they find out that we do service, they want to learn more.

Together we can serve more people, make a difference in our communities and continue our legacy of kindness, service and lasting friendships in eastern South Dakota!

Let's make it a great year!

LEADER DOGS for the BLIND

Host a breeding
dog

Our breeding mom and dad dogs represent the future of Leader Dogs for the Blind and all the guide dogs we match with people who are blind. When you become a breeding host, you ensure that many more people will have the chance to meet the dogs that will change their lives.

Hosting a breeding dog is a unique volunteer opportunity that invites you to bring a mom or dad dog into your family for the length of their breeding career—and beyond! Once your breeding mom or dad retires, they become a permanent member of your family.

Leader Dog moms and dads are chosen because they have the best qualities our dogs have to offer. With your help, they can pass on those traits to the puppies destined to become someone's eyes.
